

ANXIOUS TO HEAR FROM BULLER

Vast Crowds Surrounding the War Office in London For News

FIGHTING IS RESUMED

Gen. Warren Has Not Been Successful in Turning the Boers' Flank

His Aim is to Get Behind Them So That Buller Will Have an Easy Time Attacking Them in Front—But the Plan Don't Seem to Work—Paris Papers Say Buller is Marching to Disaster.

London, Jan. 22.—[Special Cablegram]—Crowds of anxious persons surround the war office today awaiting fresh advices from Buller regarding the advance on Ladysmith. Up to noon nothing was received.

It is certain fighting was resumed today and dispatches telling of its progress are expected at any time.

While Gen. Warren's movement so far has been successful, it is evident that he has not yet accomplished what he set out to do, namely to get behind the Boers, draw off their central strength, so that Buller will have an easier time attacking them in front.

Buller Marching to Disaster
Paris, Jan. 22.—[Special Cablegram]—The Gaulois says that Gen. Buller is marching to disaster and his defeat will definitely end the campaign in Natal. Some papers state that Gen. Cronje, who was last reported opposing Gen. Methuen, is marching through Drakensberg with reinforcements for the Boers in Natal.

The Matin publishes a letter from an American named James Dunn, who is serving with the Boers. Dunn says the Boers have over one hundred thousand men and are constantly receiving reinforcements. Fifty Americans, veterans of the Cuban campaign, have just arrived.

Bark Marie Has Been Released
Berlin, Jan. 22.—[Special Cablegram]—The British government has informed the German foreign ministry that the German bark Marie, laden with flour which was seized in South African waters by a British cruiser and taken to Durban last week, has been unconditionally released.

Krueger Orders Them Marmalade.
Pretoria, Jan. 22.—[Special Cablegram]—Some of the British officers who are held prisoners have complained of not receiving marmalade at breakfast. President Krueger ordered it to be furnished, remarking, "who will say that we are not entirely civilized?"

Kipling Has Weak Lungs.
London, Jan. 22.—[Special Cablegram]—It is learned that Rudyard Kipling went to Cape Town on account of the condition of his lungs. Doctors warned him he would probably fall a victim of consumption if he remained in England the rest of the winter.

British Accomplished Little.
London, Jan. 22.—[Special Cablegram]—A dispatch from Spearman's Camp, under today's date, describes Gen. Warren's fighting yesterday. The British accomplished little, only advancing over a few ridges. The Boers were concealed behind great boulders strewn over the hill and the British artillery was unable to dislodge them. The Boers did not have many guns but kept up a heavy musketry fire on the British infantry. A Pietermaritzburg dispatch says that Warren had 295 wounded in yesterday's battle.

RESULT VERY MUCH IN DOUBT

Buller "Thinks" the British Are Making Progress

London, Jan. 22.—[Special Cablegram]—That there has been heavy fighting on since Saturday in the Ladysmith district is certain, but any adequate idea of the results is entirely lacking in the reports to the war office and to the newspapers.

The vagueness of all the reports is exemplified in Buller's words: "I think we are making substantial progress."

Two or three of the morning papers construe this into a prediction that Ladysmith surely will be relieved during the week while others are not so sanguine.

Hopeful, but Doubting

The Times says it is hopeful, but that Buller's message regarding the engagement of Warren's forces leads to the inference that Warren is swinging his left flank around on the rear of the Boers, holding the plateau and heights of Tabamvana, and draws the conclusion that Buller has only a few troops under hand near Spearman's Farm or else he would attack the Boers in front of him while Warren is struggling to beat them at flank and rear.

It is suggested, however, that Buller and White may be holding off for the opportunity for a big combined movement.

Estimates of Boer Strength
There are many estimates of the Boer strength in Natal. Some estimates place the force at 48,000, in which case Buller could obviously have little chance of success, as the Boers after leaving a large force to invest Ladysmith, should the British take it, would still be able to place three men in line to every two of Buller's.

Duke of Teck is Dead
London, Jan. 22.—His Highness Francis Paul Charles Louis Alexander, Duke of Teck, who in 1886 married Princess Mary Adelaide, daughter of Prince Adolphus Frederick, Duke of Cambridge, seventh son of King George III, died last evening at White Lodge, Richmond Park, in his sixty-third year.

MISSOURI ASKS FOR AN INJUNCTION

Wants to Restrain the State of Illinois From Operating Chicago Drainage Canal.

Washington, Jan. 22.—[Special Telegram]—The United States supreme court today gave leave to the state of Missouri to file a petition for an injunction against the state of Illinois to prevent the operation of the Chicago drainage canal.

In the senate today Senator Allen presented a lengthy resolution calling upon Secretary for information regarding the negotiations with the National City bank and the Standard Oil Co., and reciting that certain queries were not answered by Gage's recent statement forwarded to congress. The resolution went over until tomorrow.

GEORGE M. RANDALL BRIGADIER GENERAL

President McKinley Highly Honors Former Well Known Resident of the Bower City.

Washington, Jan. 22.—[Special]—The president today nominated for brigadier generals Col. George M. Randall, Eight infantry and Col. James M. Bell, Twenty-seventh volunteer infantry. Mr. Randall is a former Janesville boy and his many local friends will extend most hearty congratulations.

TWO MEN LYNCHED IN KANSAS.

George and Ed Meeks Taken from Jail by a Mob at Fort Scott.

Fort Scott, Kan., Jan. 22.—A mob of 400 men Saturday night lynched George and Ed Meeks, alias Smith, two Kansas City criminals, who were convicted of the murder of Leopold Ellinger, a young farmer of Bates county, Missouri. The same mob was prevented from hanging Amos Phillips, an old Bates county farmer, who was convicted of the same crime, by a determined stand taken by the sheriff and his deputies, assisted by conservative citizens. The lynching was immediately induced by a murderous assault made by the prisoners on a deputy sheriff in an attempt to escape. A battle in which eight officers and three prisoners, the two Meeks and one other who was not identified on account of the darkness, participated, followed their attempt to get out. One officer was wounded, and George Meeks was shot in the leg. Thirty shots were fired in the jail. Ed Meeks declared that Phillips and George Meeks did the killing, but the mob would not let him finish his statement.

MANY FLOCK TO FRANKFORT.

Exciting Times Are Expected at Kentucky's Capital.

Frankfort, Ky., Jan. 22.—It is believed among all factions of all parties here that this will be the most eventful week ever experienced at Kentucky's capital. The many people from all parts of the state that arrived on the trains this evening are but an indication of the number that are expected tomorrow and during the remainder of the week. The gubernatorial contests can hardly be decided this or even next week, but the people realize that the end is drawing near, so far as the legislature is concerned, and say they want to be on the scene of action. Of the crowds that are pouring into Frankfort some are friends of Goebel, and are anxious to see enforced whatever may be the decision of the legislature on the contest question. Others are republicans and anti-Goebel democrats, who are equally determined that the men elected on the face of returns last November shall be continued in office.

Osman Digna Now in Prison

Suakin, Jan. 22.—Osman Digna, principal general of the Khalifa Abdullah, and who was captured last Thursday in the hills near Tokar, was brought here today and imprisoned.

ENDORSEMENT OF EXPANSION POLICY

TO WRAP STARS AND STRIPES AROUND THE WORLD.

Round of Applause Given Expansion Sentiment From People's Pulpit in Milwaukee Yesterday—Resume Arguments in Street Railway Injunction Case.—Fatality From Gas.

Milwaukee, Wis., Jan. 22.—The People's pulpit, in the Davidson theater yesterday, trenched close to the doctrine of expansion, and was rewarded with a round of applause that began with a low rumble down about the orchestra stall and swelled back to the lobby in the rear of the dress circle, climbed up into the balcony and climaxed in vigorous hand clappings in all parts of the house.

The Rev. Thomas Edward Barr, who was engaged in preaching the sermon, took the occasion later to disclaim any allusion to a political subject, and promised to explain in the future just what he meant by the expression, which had been received with so much satisfaction. So far as the congregation was concerned, however, it was evident but one interpretation was accepted at the time the remark was made, and that was an endorsement of the policy of expansion. He had been speaking of the instability of an alliance between the nations of Germany, England and the United States on a sordid, commercial basis, but declared when the German or the subjects of Great Britain came to this country and dwell beneath the Stars and Stripes they became inspired by the great national heart throbbing for liberty and individually. He then added, "I can see no way by which this community of interests can be carried out better than to wrap the Stars and Stripes around the world."

Arguments in Injunction Case

At 10 o'clock this morning the trial of the Schwartzburg injunction case was resumed in the Superior court before Judge Ludwig. George P. Miller continued his argument for the dissolution of the injunction at the point where he was stopped by the adjournment of the court last Friday afternoon through the illness of Judge Ludwig. It is expected that Mr. Miller will finish his argument this afternoon. Mr. Flanders will then address the court on the same side, and will probably close the case so far as the defense is concerned. Both Mr. Timlin and Mr. Toohy will make brief replies and the judge will then take the subject under advisement.

Blew Out the Gas.

Mary Omack, a 5-year-old child whose home was in LaSalle, Ill., died at the emergency hospital late yesterday afternoon from asphyxiation. Mrs. Myra Dankowski with whom she was traveling, had blown out the gas on retiring in the room which the two occupied at the Everett hotel, 161 Michigan street.

RELIGION GOING BACKWARD

There Are 60,000,000 Sinners in the United States.

New York, Jan. 22.—"There are 60,000,000 sinners in the United States. Not one man in 10,000 today stops to think of God until he is ready to die," said the Rev. Len D. Broughton yesterday. The long, lank revivalist from Georgia seemed to be in much earnest. He is conducting meeting at the Y. M. C. A. rooms and the Green avenue Baptist church, in Brooklyn.

"Religion is going backward," he said. "The power it once had is diminishing. The people of less intelligent ages were guided by God in all their actions. Now the church has no power. It is the fault of the church, too. Ministers are at a standstill; they are slowly losing their power. As a drawing card the church ranks only sixth in the list of public attractions. It should be made to read first."

"How do I rank public attractions? First, theaters; second, prize fights; third, cake-walks; fourth, kissing parties; fifth, dances; sixth, churches; seventh, funerals."

"The list shows that the church must be made as attractive as the theater and the cakewalk. Something must be done to bring the people into the churches, not on Sundays, but every day of the week. To do this we must make the church both a business proposition and a place of attraction."

TO PRAY FOR THE POLITICIANS

Frankfort, Ky. Ministers Set Apart Tomorrow as a Day of Appeals.

Frankfort, Ky., Jan. 22.—The clergy men of Frankfort have decided Tuesday shall be set apart as a day of humiliation and prayer. The clergymen of the various denominations announced from their pulpits this morning that the events of last week in the city of Frankfort and the continued talk of the possible repitition of such affairs which is at times indulged in by indiscreet political partisans, has made necessary some steps to awaken the public conscience to the dangers threatening the Commonwealth. Prayers will be offered asking that men of both parties may be guided to act with wisdom and moderation and that the danger of further bloodshed may be safely passed.

CIVIL SERVICE IS MAKING PROGRESS

COMMISSION MAKES ANNUAL REPORT TO PRESIDENT.

Postoffice Department Laying Plans to Extend Rural Free Delivery—England a Trifle in the Lead For Supremacy in the World's Export Trade.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 22.—The sixteenth annual report of the United States civil service commission has been submitted to the president. The report opens with a preliminary statement in regard to the extent of the classified and unclassified service from which it appears that there are approximately 75,000 positions and 107,000 unclassified positions; of the latter 71,007 are occupied by fourth-class postmasters. There are 19,446 positions in the executive service of the district of Columbia and more than 182,000 distributed among the states and territories. The commission states that the expenditure for salaries for the entire service classified and unclassified is approximately $104,000,000 per annum, a large increase having resulted from the war with Spain.

To Extend Rural Free Delivery.

The postoffice department is preparing to introduce rural free delivery upon various routes, and the experiment will be inaugurated at an early date, although several months and perhaps the present fiscal year may elapse before it is introduced upon a large scale.

The success of the rural free delivery system and the demand for its extension have induced those in charge here to undertake arrangements with star-route carriers under which they will not only perform their present duties but will deliver and collect mail along their routes, thus becoming in a degree rural carriers.

England is a Little Ahead.

Great Britain shows a "nose ahead" at the 1899 quarter pole in the neck and neck race between the United Kingdom and the United States for supremacy in the world's export trade. Domestic exports from the United Kingdom in 1899, according to official reports just received by the treasury bureau of statistics, were $1,287,971,000, making a difference of $34,000,000 in favor of the United Kingdom in the year's exportation of domestic products.

Hated For Great Britain.

At a meeting held at the Grand Opera House last night for the purpose of expressing sympathy with the Boers in their fight against the English, President McKinley, Secretary Hay, Ambassador Choate, and "official America" were denounced in the most plain-spoken manner.

Hatred for Great Britain was breathed by nearly all the speakers, among whom were Senators Mason, Allen and a large number of democratic congressmen. Senator Mason made a fervent appeal for the liberty of the Boers and the Philippines and when he had finished the applause which greeted his remarks lasted two minutes.

PERSONAL MALICE SAYS COUNT BONI

Castellane Denies That He Lost Vast Sums of Money on the Paris Bourse.

New York, Jan. 22.—[Special Telegram]—Count Boni de Castellane arrived this morning with his wife, formerly Anna Gould. The count vigorously denied having large sums on the Paris Bourse. He said the rumor was published first in the Paris Figaro, due to personal malice of editor De Rodays, whom the count branded as a thief, liar and scoundrel.

He sent a cablegram to De Rodays, demanding a retraction, saying that he would make the matter a personal affair on his return to Paris.

The count denied having come to the United States for money. His wife pronounced the story that she ran away from her husband as silly. She said they were the happiest of couples.

No member of the Gould family welcomed the couple at the pier.

LABOR CALLS ON MCKINLEY.

As a Union Member, He Is Asked to Redress a Grievance.

New York, Jan. 22.—The Central Federated union decided to remind President McKinley that as a member of the bricklayers' union of Chicago he is expected to take an active interest in trades' union matters.

The subject came up at the Central Federated union meeting on a complaint made by the delegate of the Pipe Calkers and Tappers' union that men who were engaged in laying pipe on Bedloe's and Governor's islands were compelled to work ten hours a day instead of eight. Isaac Owen of the Amalgamated Engineers had an idea.

"Since President McKinley is a member of the Bricklayers' union in Chicago," he said, "Why should we not write him and ask him to act in the matter?"

The suggestion was hailed with applause, and the secretary was instructed to write to President McKinley, asking him to try to have the eight-hour law enforced on Bedloe's and Governor's islands.

PASTOR LIKES WORLDLY WAYS

Oakland Minister Defends "Things That Are Tabooed by Churches"

Oakland, Cal., Jan. 22.—The Rev. James C. MacInnes, pastor of the Oak Leaf Congregational Chapel, is announcing his retirement from the ministry, said:

"I believe in dancing and a long list of other things that are tabooed by church-goers when indulged in by ministers. If a man needs a drink he has the right to take it. When I meet a man on the street I like to slap him on the back and say 'Hello, there, Bill' in a good hearty voice."

"I believe in God and Christianity, but the church is burdened with false ideas and full of sinful hypocrites, and some of my friends who might be called 'flushers' are infinitely better than these frauds of piety."

"The ministry is no place for a young man who wants his personal liberty. He must use too much hypocrisy and overlook too much hypocrisy in others."

WILL PUBLISH A CHRISTIAN DAILY

TOPEKA CAPITAL WILL BE EDITED ON NOVEL PLAN.

Charles M. Sheldon, Author of "In His Steps," to Conduct Editorial Department of Capital For One Week—Employees Must Pray Before Starting Work—Sports Barred.

Topeka, Kas., Jan. 22.—The Rev. Charles M. Sheldon, author of "In His Steps," is to be afforded the opportunity of demonstrating the ethics of pure journalism as he understands them. The Topeka Capital Publishing company will on March 13 turn over to Mr. Sheldon the entire editorial and business control of the paper for one week, or longer if the venture is financially successful. Mr. Sheldon will be permitted to surround himself with a staff of his own selection, and his actions will not be questioned or met with objection by the owner of the paper.

Mr. Sheldon demanded as a condition precedent to his assuming the duties of directing the innovation that he should receive no compensation for his services. He believes this action on his part is a duty he owes to the readers of his books and to all who believe in that higher journalism he conceives himself competent to promulgate.

Will Cut Out Sports

Charles A. Dana once said that whatever the divine providence permitted to occur he was not "too proud to report Mr. Sheldon differs from the veteran journalist in that he will not permit the publication of reports of prize fights, police news, horse races, baseball games, or other items that in his opinion would be calculated to poison the mind of any one who read the paper.

Every news item and advertisement will pass under his personal supervision, the test of its admissibility being "what would Jesus do" were he editing the paper?

Employees Must Pray.

To begin with Mr. Sheldon will insist upon every employee of the paper saying his prayers before entering upon his daily labors. This will necessitate several distinct services of prayer, as the day force as well as those who come on duty at night will be constrained to bow to this command. The "devil box" thrown out of the window; profanity will be prohibited.

The sporting editor will be assigned to report church socials. The police reporter will assist the society editor. The position of telegraph editor will be secure as he will be kept busy deciding what is and what is not proper to go before the censorship of Mr. Sheldon.

GERMANY IS INDIGNANT

German Press Clamors for Reprisals—Seizure of the Bark Marine is Severely Denounced.

Berlin, Jan. 22.—Detailed reports about the seizure of another German ship by an English cruiser are coming in, and indignation runs high again in this latest instance of British vindictiveness. Many papers are clamoring for reprisals, and reproach the British government with disregarding its promises.

As the English papers did not even try to conceal their intense satisfaction over the latest seizure, it would seem that Germany had not been sufficiently outspoken in making known to England that such interference with German commerce would not be brooked any longer.

Since England promised the Washington government that flour would not be considered contraband of war the seizure of the Marie, which, too, had flour on board, was obviously a slap in the face of Germany.

REV. CHENEY IN THE PULPIT

Racine Minister Who Was Shot Still Weak But Preaches.

Racine, Wis., Jan. 22.—The Rev. D. B. Cheney who was shot a few weeks ago by a thief, appeared in the pulpit of the Baptist church yesterday for the first time since the shooting. He preached both morning and evening and alluded briefly to the injuries he and his wife had received, stating that both were still weak and that it would be some time before either would be fully recovered.

THREATEN TO KICK OVER THE TRACES

New York Gold Democrats Make Trouble For Bryan and Free Silver

IT DEPENDS ON CROKER

The White Metal Champion Arrives in Gotham and Will be Given Banquet

Mr. Bryan Announces His Plan in Regard to the Trust Problem—Proposes Jurisdiction of the Federal Government Over All Interstate Corporations—Would Pass a Law Requiring Them to Take Out Licenses.

New York, Jan. 22.—[Special Telegram]—William J. Bryan arrived here this morning and took quarters at the hotel which is the headquarters of the state democracy. Tomorrow evening he dines at the Democratic club, and his presence there marks the acceptance of Bryan and all that he stands for by the democracy of New York City. The gold men in the club threaten to kick over the traces, but it is thought Croker will keep them in line.

In regard to the trust problem Mr. Bryan announced the following plan, which has been generally approved by the eastern democratic leaders.

He proposes that the jurisdiction of the federal government be extended over all corporations that have interests in more than one state, and are therefore engaged in interstate commerce in the constitutional meaning of that phrase, and the passage of a law requiring them to take out licenses, for which they must pay a reasonable tax to the commissioner of internal revenue.

At stated periods all such corporations shall be required to publish statements of their financial condition and transactions, similar to those made by the national banks, and their books shall be always open to examination by special agents of the internal-revenue bureau, who shall have power and duties similar to those of national bank examiners.

This proposition is not materially different from that which the industrial commission is expected to recommend in its report to congress, except that the body will recommend that the trusts be placed under the jurisdiction of the interstate commission instead of the internal revenue bureau.

JOHNSON ROUTED REBELS AT TAAL

Filipino Town Attacked From the North and South and the Enemy Dispersed.

Washington, Jan. 22.—[Special Telegram]—General Otis reports this morning on the movement through Balayang province by Major Johnson and a battalion of the Fortieth Infantry, which he characterizes as ably conducted and important in results.

After three little fights, in which the insurgents lost three killed, seven captured, a field piece and two dozen rifles taken, Johnson approached Taal, where a strong rebel force was entrenched. Three companies of the Thirty-Eighth were brought as reinforcements from Ibabang on the navy gunboat, Major Muir commanding.

The town was attacked from the north and south. The enemy was dispersed in many directions. Four field pieces and a quantity of rifles were taken; one American was killed and two slightly wounded in all these operations.

Rebels Defeated at Taal.

Manila, Jan. 22, 7:25 p. m.—Major Johnson, with two companies of the Forty-sixth regiment, and Major Muir, with three companies of the Thirty-eighth, have defeated 800 rebels at Taal. They captured three cannons and many other arms. The American loss was two men wounded. The gunboat Marietta co-operated with the troops.

Bodies in Wreck Not Recovered.

St. Johns, N. F., Jan. 22.—Another rainstorm, with a fierce gale prevented the intended effort to recover the bodies of the victims of the Hegoland disaster. The effect of the storm upon the sea will probably postpone the attempt for two or three days, and it is now feared, that owing to the continuance of rough weather, such as is usual at this season, few if any of the bodies will ultimately be recovered.

Novelist Blackmore Dead.

London, Jan. 22.—Richard Doddridge Blackmore, the novelist, died at Teddington today. He was born at Longworth Berks, in 1825.

FIRE POLICE HAVE GOODLY SUM DUE

ELEVEN LOCAL AGENCIES FILE THEIR STATEMENTS.

In the Neighborhood of $950 Will Be Paid Into the Treasury of the Fire Police For Premiums During the Year 1899—Compares Favorably With the Year 1898.

As the result of the amount of fire insurance written by local agents during the year 1899 in the city of Janesville, the fire police will receive in the neighborhood of $950.

City Treasurer James A. Fathers has received reports from eleven agencies doing business in the city and from the amount of their premiums the fire police receive a two per cent tax. From the eleven agencies a total of $925.78 is the amount to be received.

Other agencies are yet to be heard from and when the total sum is received the amount to be paid the fire police will be in the neighborhood of $950. As compared to the amount received in 1898 there is but little difference. Following is the amount of business done by the eleven agencies during the year 1899:

ORIGIN OF A NAME.

Why Ladysmith, in Natal, Happens to Be So Called.

Probably the most talked about place in the world today for a city of its size is Ladysmith, so the story of how it received its name is of timely interest. As a matter of fact, Ladysmith was named after an estimable and noble English woman, whose husband, Sir Harry Smith, gave his name to another South African town, Harrismith. The full title of this pioneer Briton was Sir Harry George Wakelind Smith, Bart. He descended from an old Cambridgeshire family. His father was a surgeon, and two of his brothers were, like himself, soldiers. It is said of him that wherever he went there was fighting to be done. He and his two brothers were in the peninsular war and were at Waterloo. He was at the siege

SIR HARRY SMITH AND LADY SMITH, of Badajos, where an incident happened which gave him his wife, Lady Smith, for whom Ladysmith, in Natal, was named.

At Badajos he was standing with the general and staff when a Spanish countess and her young sister came to the general for protection. Sir Harry was immediately smitten by the charms of the younger petitioner, and the acquaintance thus begun was followed by marriage.

Lady Smith accompanied her husband wherever he went. She was at the battle of Chillianwallah and received a medal, which is still in the family possession. Sir Harry received his baronetcy for his victory at the battle of Alivai, and Lady Smith received a pension. From 1847 until his death in 1854 Sir Harry was governor of the Cape.

The quaint silhouettes of Sir Harry and Lady Smith, here reproduced, are from the London Graphic.

GLORIOUS HAIR

Is a matter of choice. Any woman may have it if she takes the trouble.

HERE'S PROOF

Miss Carrie Sparr, 2780 Cherry Street, Kansas City, Mo., writes: "Six weeks ago I began using the Seven Sutherland Sisters' Scalp Cleaner and Hair Grower. My hair was very thin, having fallen out from scarlet fever. Thick, glossy hair is now coming in, and I am positive the remedies have greatly helped me. I advise everyone to use them." They CURE where others fail.

J. B. ARNER DENIES STORIES

Says He Knew Nothing About Court Case Until Papers Gave News.

J. B. Arner denies the charge made in the municipal court that he abused his children and gave them whiskey, etc. "I was not in court at all," said Mr. Arner, today. "When the case was called I was working for Mr. Chamberlain on the ice at Beloit, and knew nothing about the case until I heard of it through the papers. I am running my farm near Afton and am doing the best I can by my children. My wife died two years ago and I am alone with my little ones. The two children who were sent to Milwaukee by the court have not been with me for some time. They ran away from home last fall and I have not seen them since. The other three are living with me and I am doing all I can for them. They will tell their own story to anyone who asks them if they are ill-treated. I run my farm alone and work hard. While I was working on the ice at Beloit I had to drive five miles to my labor morning and night. The stories published about the case in court make me feel very bad and I am at loss to know who could testify to the facts stated."

VERY REMARKABLE JANUARY WEATHER

Not Since 1880 Has There Been a January With Such High Temperatures.

Janesville is having a taste of the most remarkable winter weather known in the experience of the oldest settler.

All the northwest was warm yesterday. Even those far off places like Medicine Hat, whose names to the initiated are connected with the origin of blizzards and storms, were as warm or warmer than Janesville. Only three points in the country showed a temperature as low as freezing, those being all in the east—Albany and Oswego in New York, and Boston. Further than that, a thing very rare in weather history, not a single station reported even a single drop of rainfall or other precipitation of moisture during the day.

Not since 1880 has there been a month of January when the temperatures were continuously so high as they have been in this period of this month. That year, however, January, counting in the whole thirty-one days, showed an average daily excess of temperature above the normal of 16 degrees. There were days in that month when a temperature as high as 61 was registered, and the lowest temperature of the month was only 19 degrees, while there was not a single day during which at some time the mercury did not go above freezing.

This year, since Jan. 2, the lowest temperature has been 23 degrees, while the highest has been 48 degrees, making a range much less than in that month of 1880, and giving as a result a steady impression of greater warmth. Indeed, unless a sudden change comes causing a big drop in the temperature, January, 1900, may make such a record as will cause 1880 to take a back seat in the matter of warm January's.

Last year there were four warm days in the middle of January when the temperature was as high as it has been running here lately, but the month as a whole showed that the temperature had averaged something below the normal.

WOMEN AT THE FRONT.

Loyal English Wives Who Have Followed Their Husbands Into Danger.

Many English women are now in South Africa. Some of them have husbands who are either wounded or ill, some have sons whom they wish to be near, and some have both. Not a few of these women are among the besieged in Ladysmith or Kimberley. They have risked many dangers and are enduring many privations and much suffering in order to be near those they love best.

Among these loyal British wives are the Hon. Mrs. Goldman and the Hon. Mrs. Rochfort Maguire, daughters of Lord Peel. Mrs. Goldman was going to the front with her husband when Mr. Goldman was disabled by an accident. He was taken back to Pietermaritzburg, where he has since been, carefully nursed by his wife. She has also devoted some of her attention to the streams of wounded British soldiers constantly coming from the front.

Her sister, Mrs. Maguire, is shut up in Kimberley with her husband. She has already experienced long weeks of the siege, but has busied herself in lightening the burden of others and is probably thankful for the opportunity of being useful.

An idea of the development of South Africa is given by the fact that the Chemical and Metallurgical Society of South Africa has 534 members, of whom 449 are residents in that part of the globe.

Heroic.

She—If I were a man I would never rest until I had become a hero. It seems to me every man who is a man ought to do something heroic at least once in his life.

He—Well, I don't know but that you're right. I think myself that every man ought to be a hero once in a while.

She—Then why don't you have the courage of your convictions?

He—I have. Didn't I walk clear down the aisle to the front pew with you after the preacher had got nearly half through with his sermon last Sunday morning?—Chicago Daily News.

ABOUT HUNTERS' LICENSE

County Clerk Starr Kept Busy Answering Many Questions.

There has been no end of confusion and county clerks have been put to lots of bother in answering inquiries concerning the 1900 hunters' license. The 1899 license stated clearly that it expired December 31, 1899. And since then there have been numerous inquiries for the 1900 permits. A communication from State Game Warden James T. Ellarson answers all inquiries. All hunters' licenses issued during the year 1899 will be good for spring shooting until May 1, 1900. On this date a new supply of applications and licenses will be sent out for the various county clerks for the season, which opens September 1, 1900, and closes April 30, 1901.

HER LOVE IN EXILE.

Romance of a Beautiful Daughter of a Beautiful Mother.

Here is the young woman for love of whom, it is said, the heir of the richest man in England was sent off to South Africa, where he is now fighting the Boers. She is Miss Sheila West, daughter of that renowned beauty, Mrs. Cornwallis West. The young heir is the Viscount Belgrave, grandson of the late Duke of Westminster, whose title and vast estates he has inherited.

It seems that the young viscount fell in love with Miss West at their first meeting. He was 22 then and she about three years his senior. They kept the affair secret for a time, but finally his mother heard of it. She protested and besought. She told him he was too young to think of marriage.

But he was stubborn, as lovers are ever. Then she told his grandfather. The stern old duke stormed. There was a family scene in the castle. It ended by the young man refusing to renounce his love, but, as a compromise, promising to go to South Africa. He went as an aid on the staff of Sir Alfred Milner and faithfully promised to stay in Cape Town, out of danger. In the meantime the old duke has died, but it is not expected that the young viscount will return to England until the war is over.

The women of the house of Cornwallis West are renowned for their beauty. Their beauty is matter of history, substantiated by their conquests. Away back it became famous when the Lady Olivia Fitz Patrick, mother of Mrs. Cornwallis West, fascinated that paragon of virtue, the late prince consort, husband of Queen Victoria.

Mrs. Cornwallis West made herself irresistible to the Prince of Wales, whose wide taste in the charms of the fair sex has been proved by the variety of his choice. Then came her daughter, the Princess Henry of Pless, who wrought havoc in the heart of the Duke of York, eldest son of the Prince of Wales.

Bright's Disease,

So called, after the English physician, Dr. Bright, who first investigated its character, is one of the serious ailments of mankind. It is caused by a degeneration of the tissues of the kidneys into fat. This impairs the exciting powers of the organ, so that the urea is not separated from the blood. Congestion follows and there is a throwing off of albumen and fibrin. The patient presents a flabby, bloodless look, is drowsy and easily fatigued.

BULLER SENDS DISPATCHES.

Says That the Fighting Is Still Going On.

WARREN SAVED AT LIGHT COST.

Heavy Loss for British at Neutens Point
—Gen. French Makes Another Demonstration at Hebron—Boers Are Hard on Colonial Prisoners.

London, Jan. 22.—The following dispatch has been received from Gen. Buller: "Spearman's Camp, Jan. 21, 9 p. m.—Warren has been engaged all day, chiefly on his left, which he has swung forward a couple of miles. The ground is very difficult, and as the fighting is all the time uphill it is difficult to say exactly how much we gain, but I think we are making substantial progress."

An earlier dispatch from Gen. Buller, timed 6:55 a. m., says: "In order to relieve the pressure on Warren and to ascertain the strength of the enemy in front of Potgieter's drift, Lyttleton made a reconnaissance in force. He kept the enemy in their trenches in full strength all day. Our casualties were two killed, twelve wounded and two missing." Gen. Buller wires that eleven officers, including two staff officers, and 278 men were wounded in an action near Venters Spruit.

Gen. Roberts cables the war office that Gen. French reports that he made a demonstration with cavalry and artillery towards Hebron. Otherwise the situation is unchanged.

Brabant's Estimate Explained.

A dispatch from Sterkstroom, dated Jan. 20, explains Gen. Brabant's small estimate of the number of Boers at Stormberg. It says that a medical lieutenant who remained with the wounded after the disaster to the British has returned to the camp. He estimates the Boers at 5,000, but they have established a new camp seven miles beyond Sterkstroom, where a strong detachment was left. They had received additional guns, which were served by German gunners. Gen. De launey, with re-enforcements, was expected to arrive in a short time from the west. Old men and boys were serving as a town guard at Burgersdorp, where supplies were scanty.

The Free State Boers were very kind to the prisoners, but the colonial rebels were extremely hard. Landrost Steyn, brother of the president of the Free State, was most considerate to the British captives. The lieutenant adds that the Boers are confident of ultimate success. They declare that the British artillery has done little harm.

The transport Manchester Corporation, carrying royal horse artillery, was spoken Saturday 500 miles northeast of the island of Ascension. She signaled that she had lost two blades of her propeller. The transport put into Gibraltar a month ago to repair her propeller, two blades of which she lost shortly after leaving England. She sailed from Gibraltar on Jan. 2.

Dispatch from Spearman's Camp.

Spearman's Camp, Jan. 21, 8:35 p. m.—The British casualties in Saturday's fighting were 279. Capt. Hensley of the Dublin regiment was shot in the forehead and killed.

Today there was another stubborn fight from dawn to dark, the British slowly gaining ground. There has been constant musketry firing to the northwest. The British gained a position the Boers were holding on the rocky ground beyond.

The battle which is progressing is most difficult to describe. There is fighting in front and on both flanks, covering a wide range of territory.

At 10 o'clock this morning the Dublin regiment carried a strong position at the point of the bayonet.

Gen. Kitchener Issues Orders.

Cape Town, Jan. 22.—Gen. Lord Kitchener has issued a general order impressing on officers and men the importance of securing the co-operation of the people of the country by good and conciliatory treatment. He says that when supplies are required they must be paid for and a receipt taken. Officers will be held responsible for seeing that their soldiers do not enter private houses or molest the inhabitants. They are also ordered to suppress looting. If supplies are absolutely necessary for the subsistence of the army and the inhabitants are unwilling to supply them, commanding officers, after careful investigation, may take them forcibly, but in all cases a full receipt must be given therefor.

Field Marshal Lord Roberts, the chief military commander in South Africa, is forming a body guard of colonial troopers. It is considered by this action he is paying a high compliment to the colonial forces.

Cape Town, Jan. 22.—The hospital ship Maine, which was fitted out by American ladies residing in England has arrived here.

Kruger's Birthday.

Today is the sixty-eighth anniversary of the birth of President Kruger of the Transvaal. The Afrikaander bond press deprecates the government's intention to remove the Boer prisoners to Cape Point. The reason of that cry can only be the inaccessibility of that place for friendly sympathizers. Cape Point, which is seventeen miles from Simons Town, is a very healthy place. The town is open to the cool southern breezes, and water is plentiful. It is a favorite resort for excursionists. The war news appearing in the Onseand, a bond paper, furnishes a fine example of the manner in which the Dutch papers distort facts. Discussing Gen. Buller's movements in Natal, that paper asserts that he has only crossed the Little Tugela river, whereas Kitchener, Rhinoceros Fontein and Acton Homes, where the recent fighting occurred, are all north of the Great Tugela.

Kop, Rhinoceros Fontein and Acton Homes, where the recent fighting occurred, are all north of the Great Tugela.

Battle at Spearman's Camp.

Spearman's Camp, Jan. 22.—The operations Saturday commenced at dawn. Gen. Warren attacked the Boers, who occupied a strong position on his right. The British artillery delivered a heavy shell fire, but the Boers did not reply until 2 o'clock. Then the British concentrated the fire of their big guns on the enemy's artillery, while the infantry advanced under and delivered a heavy rifle fire. The Boers courageously and tenaciously held their position, but they were finally forced back and the British swarmed over the ridge. The Boers retired in good order and took up a second position, which was subjected to a heavy bombardment with lyddite shells. This forced a second retreat, the enemy being closely pressed by Gen. Warren's men.

Gen. Clery's and Gen. Warren's commands then bivouacked on the ground gained after heavily bombarding for some time the enemy's position. The foregoing was Gens. Warren's and Clery's work toward the northwest.

Simultaneously Gen. Lyttleton, with a view to relieving the pressure on Gen. Warren, attacked the enemy's front west of Potgieter's drift. He pushed forward his infantry, covered by the howitzers and naval guns, both on the north bank of the river and Mount Alice. The infantry's further advance forced the Boers to open fire with their Nordenfeldt seven-pounder, which was silenced by lyddite shells in a quarter of an hour.

The Dublins Heard From.

London, Jan. 22.—Prior to the battle of Colenso the Irish brigade serving with the Boers sent a letter to the Dublin troops, saying they were glad that they were to have an opportunity to wipe them from the face of the earth. The Dublins answered: "We will walk through your brigade as the devil walked through Athlone."

Macrum's Lips Sealed by Hay.

Rome, Jan. 22.—Mr. Macrum, formerly American consul at Pretoria, who is enroute to the United States, started for London last night. He said he had received a dispatch from Secretary of State Hay forbidding him to grant any interviews.

Recruiting Boers in Berlin.

Berlin Jan. 22.—The papers are publishing advertisements for volunteers to undertake recruiting for the Boers.

BIG STRIKE AT TROY, N. Y.

350 Motormen Tie Up the Traffic for the Time Being.

Troy, N. Y., Jan. 22.—The conductors and motormen on the Troy division of the United Traction company road struck this morning and the line has been tied up all day. The railroad has made no attempt to reopen the line, though it is understood that an attempt to run cars would be made before tomorrow. Extra police have been provided in anticipation of trouble. The men on Saturday presented to Superintendent Fassett an agreement providing for a wage scale of twenty cents an hour for a day of ten hours. Superintendent Fassett refused to consider the matter and referred the men to the directors of the road. The men held a meeting this morning and voted to go on a strike. As a result 350 men refused to go out with cars. The company has in force on its Albany division a sliding wage scale, providing for 16 cents an hour for two-year men, 18 1/2 cents for three-year men and 20 cents for men in the employ of the company four years. It was in anticipation of an enforcement of the scale on the Troy road that the men struck. Forty green men were put at work on the Troy division last week. They all joined the strikers today.

Reese Contempt Case Up.

Topeka, Kan., Jan. 22.—The now celebrated contempt case of B. P. Reese, president of the United Mine Workers' union, was appealed to the United States Supreme court today. Reese was held in contempt by Judge Williams of the federal court at Fort Scott several weeks ago for violating an order prohibiting union miners from interfering with the operation of the coal mines in southeastern Kansas and was sent to jail. He made application for his release on a writ of habeas corpus before Judge Thayer of the Court of Appeals and it was granted. Now the coal companies propose to appeal the case to the United States Supreme court.

Canal Water Reaches Pekin.

Pekin, Ill., Jan. 22.—The water from Lake Michigan and the Chicago river began to arrive here last night through the drainage canal. The water in the Illinois river here has risen five inches on the gauge since then and is still rising. There is no apparent change in the color of the water from what it has been for a week—a muddy color.

Eleven Men Are Entombed.

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 22.—Shortly after 1 o'clock the west end of what is known as the Third street tunnel, which is under construction between Hill and Hope streets, a distance of three blocks, caved in and entombed eleven laborers and bricklayers and fatally injured W. T. Lambie, an inspector of the street department.

Hero of Civil War Dead.

Galesburg, Ill., Jan. 22.—William Wallace Patch, a thirty-second degree Mason, died here today, aged 76 years, of pneumonia. During the civil war he was a railroad conductor in the south in the government employ, and had many thrilling experiences, receiving injuries that he carried through life.

PET SUPERSTITIONS.

Some That Influence All Sorts of People.

Dr. Samuel Johnson would never enter a room left foot foremost; the brave Marshal Saxe screamed in terror at the sight of a cat; Peter the Great was not equal to crossing a bridge when he came to it, unless to do so was absolutely necessary; Byron shared with less famous people than he the dislike to having the salt at table spilled between him and his neighbor. A sneeze is with half the nations of the world nothing to be sneezed at. To exclaim "God bless you!" when any one sneezes in your presence is a relic of what what the Roman did before us, and before him the Greek. Mohammed gives directions of the same kind to his followers, and the Hindu of today utters his pious ejaculation after the sneeze by way of prayer or good wish on behalf of the victim. Many people will avoid going under a ladder if they can get around it. The belief that if you put on your stockings the wrong side out it is lucky is very general, or was until the schoolmaster returned from abroad, and I myself remember an old woman who was convinced that turning her stockings inside out saved her from being lost when the faibles, one pitch-dark night, had misled her on a trackless English moor. What is to take the place of a lucky horseshoe when we all ride in automobiles? There is no room for the imagination in them. Some new mascot will have to be discovered. Charms of one kind or another are carried by people that have a pious contempt for heathen superstitions; a small potato, for example, to avert rheumatism, or a chestnut. The late journalist, George Augustus Sala, never traveled without carrying with him, as a lucky card, an ace of spades. Somehow it failed to save him from his creditors. But creditors are notoriously deficient in imagination. If Shylock had remembered this when he drew up his bond, "The Merchant of Venice" would never have been written.—Rochester Post-Express.

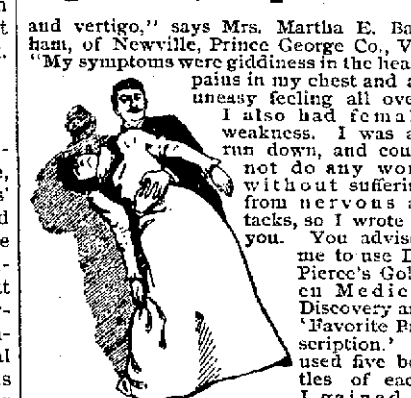

A New Way of Treating Laces.

There is a novel and effective way of treating lace that is as yet only employed by foreign houses noted for the originality of their creations. The new idea is to apply fur or velvet to the heavier laces. For lace to be employed on outdoor garments the following method is employed. For instance, on a long, loose redingote made of all over Luxeull lace of a heavy self colored corded silk, this was done: A portion of the design was covered with velvet cut out to the exact shape of the leaves or flowers and fixed by means of a buttonhole stitch in thick silk of the same color. It was not always the same portion of the figure that was covered.

A still more costly method of treatment is to apply tiny bits of golden seal, brown seal or beaver, or, if possible, fine sable.

Perhaps the youngest of feminine political orators in the country is Miss Florence Ceitlin of Chicago. She is only 16 years of age, but has made hundreds of campaign speeches in the west which are said to have been very effective.

"I was suffering with what the doctor called chronic indigestion, torpid liver and vertigo," says Mrs. Martha E. Barham, of Newville, Prince George Co., Va. "My symptoms were giddiness in the head, pain in my chest and an uneasy feeling all over. I also had female weakness. I was all run down, and could not do any work without suffering from nervous attacks, so I wrote to you. You advised me to use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and 'Favorite Prescription.' I used five bottles of each. I gained in health and strength. When I commenced to use the medicines I weighed only 112 pounds, now I weigh 140. My husband and friends all thought that I would die, but to-day I am a well woman."

Mrs. Barham's experience is not singular. Thousands have given similarly strong and convincing testimony. "There are no other medicines in the world that have such a long and continuous record of cures. There are no other medicines 'just as good' or 'just the same' as Doctor Pierce's. Like all valuable things these medicines are sometimes imitated. Don't be imposed upon. See that you get what you ask for."

If you have any doubt as to the nature of your ailment write fully, giving your symptoms, to Dr. R. V. Pierce, consulting physician, Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y. He will consider your case carefully, and will tell you, absolutely free of charge, what to do to get well.

THIS DAY IN HISTORY.

1205—First English parliament to which knights of shires, citizens and burgesses were summoned.

1561—Lord Chancery Francis Bacon born at St. Albans, died 1626.

1588—John Winthrop, colonial governor of Massachusetts, born in Suffolk, England; Winthrop, died in Boston 1649. John Winthrop was born to wealth and influence in England. He was active in public life and in a position to encourage the Puritan settlement in America.

When the Massachusetts company resolved to transfer to America the whole government of its colonization enterprises, Winthrop was appointed leader and governor.

1783—George Gordon Noel Byron (Lord Byron) born; died 1824.

1870—George D. Prentice, famous wit and for 40 years editor of Louisville Journal, died in Louisville; born in Preston, Conn., 1822.

1883—Paul Gussard Dore, the prolific and prominent French painter, died in Paris; born 1833.

1894—Constance Fenimore Woolson, grandniece of Fenimore Cooper and an author of note, died at Nice, France; born 1848.

1897—General John D. Stevenson, veteran of the Mexican and civil wars, died in St. Louis; born 1821.

GOOD MEN CHOSEN.

Governor Scofield made three excellent appointments Saturday when he named Judge N. S. Gilson for tax commissioner, Col. W. J. Anderson as a member of the commission, and Dan B. Stanley of The Milwaukee Evening Wisconsin, as secretary to the governor. Judge Gilson succeeds Gen. Griffin as the head of the commission, and Col. Anderson is appointed to fill the vacancy caused by Judge Gilson's advancement.

Col. Anderson is in every way qualified for the position, and his appointment will give excellent satisfaction. His long service as secretary to the governor has made him familiar with his duties and requirements, of the state in the taxation line.

Dan B. Stanley is one of the best known Wisconsin newspaper men. He has been connected with The Evening Wisconsin for many years, his special line of work being politics, and Washington and Madison correspondence. He has never been "weighed and found wanting," no matter how trying the circumstances under which he worked.

The United States District court of Massachusetts has decided that the name "Wheeling stogies" can only be applied to the cigars made in Wheeling, W. Va. 'Tis well. Let Wheeling carry her own burdens. The responsibility is hers, and no innocent city should be allowed to suffer.

Milwaukee courts would do well, perhaps, to take notice of the fact that one of the finest jails in the state is located in Janesville. A special arrangement can be made, if necessary, for the accommodation of high toned people, and at reasonable rates. Everything new, clean, and modern.

A Nashville, Tenn., minister was driven crazy by the factional discord in his church, took to drink, got into jail, and is now in an insane asylum. Poor man! How sharper than a serpent's tooth to have a graceless congregation—with base ball bats, as christian civilizers, barred.

Senator Clark is quoted as saying that he "would spend a million to be elected." This statement should not be misconstrued. Clark might have meant minutes, hours, days, votes, miles or stitches.

Andrew Carnegie will give the city of Ottumwa, Iowa, $50,000 for a public library, but his determination to succeed from the union if expansion policies prevail, is still unshaken.

Constant Reader—You are right. One thick coat of whitewash does not cover as well as several thinner coats—especially if the color to be covered is scarlet.

"Bigamists in Hungary" says the Chicago Journal "are required by law to live with both wives in the same house." Great Scott! What a fearful punishment!

The inventor of the chainless bike is all right, but the man who gets up a costless machine will live in history a blamed sight longer.

Congressman Roberts, too, will probably come into the possession of the nickname "Bobs."

The sugar trust has sweetened the price to the amount of 1-10 cent a pound.

Senator Hale's denunciation of England contained words the size of hen's eggs.

Whether or not Milwaukee gets the democratic convention and the nine other conventions that she wants, makes no difference—she will still hold the belt as the "injunction city," anyhow.

WITH THE BRETHERN.

Been in Town Before

The Milwaukee Sentinel, it may be met to remark, is not "afraid of the cars."

Survival of the Fittest.

The Green Bay Morning Times has suspended, for lack of patronage. The Green Bay Gazette was so deservingly popular that The Times had no show.

Bachelor's Troubles Coming

The Milwaukee Journal is publishing articles written by women on the subject of "How to Control a Husband." A prize will be given for the best essay—if a bachelor editor is able to decide the matter.

Telegram is Truthful

In speaking of Henry C. Payne, The Superior Evening Telegram says:

"As the Evening Telegram has said, Mr. Payne would be a credit to the party and the state in almost any high office."

Chronicle a Fine Paper

The new La Crosse Chronicle is already one of the best papers in the Northwest, despite the fact that it is now a plant in its complete infancy. It is the only morning paper in its field, and its business is growing every day.

Mules Versus Art.

"The Art Institute," says a Chicago paper, "has appointed a committee of five to look after the city billboards and endeavor to correct their abuses. What more could you ask? Here is a chance for the St. Louis papers to say something caustic. The St. Louis people may worship the sad-eyed mule, but they do not classify their billboards as works of art."

Chance For the Girls

One of the best matrimonial possibilities on the market, girls, is Colonel Daniel B. Starkey, secretary to the governor. Col. Starkey is a bachelor, good looking, smart, a colonel, has an income of $2,800 a year, and is of exceptional personal character. What more could you ask? Now don't all speak at once, but go at him one at a time. And may the best girl win.

Silver Paper Demontized.

The Fort Atkinson Chronicle, silver, has gone to the wall. There were so many gold men among the German democrats of Jefferson county that The Chronicle was a political failure, while The Jefferson County Union, ex-governor Hoard's paper, covered the local field so completely that even the silver men had to leave it. Hence, The Chronicle had to live on bare ground, and finally passed away.

Good Paper, But Bad Town

The Eau Claire Leader pokes fun at lawless Racine. After reprinting a twenty-one item taken from the Racine Journal, The Leader says:

"Sufferin' Moses! What a chapter of iniquity: what a record of crime; what a train of accidents, and all in the one day's paper, but still there is room to be thankful for at least two things. One is, that Racine, it was numbered 13 instead of 16, had it been numbered 13, no one could estimate the number of casualties resulting. It would have proven a public calamity. The other cause of congratulation which The Leader hastens to extend friend Testevin and his enterprising bunch, is that we notice in another column of his esteemed, ever, and spicy paper, a notice as follows:

"Revival meetings will be held at the First M. E. church every night this week except Saturday, at 7:30." Therefore, let us hope and pray.

Mayor Atkinson overlooks a point—in Racine, takes The Journal's advice, and hires more policemen, there will doubtless be less lawlessness.

IMMACULATE DUTCH KITCHENS

The Mistresses Go Into Them Several Times a Day.

"The Dutch housewife," says the Gentlewoman, "has not her equal in the world as a manager. She is first of all the absolute mistress of her home." There are no implicit reservations as to the kitchen. She goes into it every day, and at any hour of the day, and the cook who objects is likely to be dismissed for her pains. In that respect, at any rate, maids appear to be more tractable in Holland than with us. And such kitchens they are! For I was asked and was taken into three, and each time my visit to them happened to be about an hour before dinner. In each case the family to be provided for was fairly numerous—in one case it consisted of a round dozen persons, the youngest of whom was 10. The dinner hour is between 6 and 6:30 o'clock, for even in those well-to-do families the so-called luncheon is somewhat in the nature of a "high tea," the Souchong being replaced by coffee, though not always. I was introduced then into the kitchen without the slightest warning, the mistress not having deemed it necessary to ask permission of her lieutenant to visit her domain, even in company of a stranger. And the lieutenant, secure of the impeccability of all things in her charge, received us with a smile and went on manipulating stewpans, red copper and earthenware, as if she were all alone, and I had an opportunity of looking around. The conventional dinner and breakfast service was not there, instead of which an array of saucepans, strainers, colanders and the rest such as I have never seen in England. Soup tureens, sauceboat and dishes were inclosed in cupboards, the shelves of which were covered with white linen cloths, trimmed with lace, all dazlingly white. I asked how often these had to be changed and was told that four weeks was the regulation period."

Seven Sons in the British Army.

Mrs. O'Keefe, the widow of a sergeant in the Munster Fusiliers, has received the following communication from the queen: "The commander-in-chief having brought to the notice of the queen the fact of Mrs. O'Keefe's having at present seven sons serving in the army, her majesty's private secretary is commanded to forward the enclosed present of £5 from the queen, and at the same time express to Mrs. O'Keefe the gratification with which her majesty has learned of this remarkable and praiseworthy instance of voluntary service to their queen and country in one home. Her majesty the queen thinks Mrs. O'Keefe has every reason to be proud of her sons."

The gold plate at Windsor castle is the largest collection in the world. It is valued at $10,000,000.

NEWPORT OF SOUTH AFRICA.

Durban, the Delightful City Through Which British Troops Swam to the Front.

By John F. Willoughby.

Durban, where so many thousands of British soldiers have recently landed, is the most important city on the east coast of Africa. It is the chief town in Natal, being much larger and a great deal livelier than Pietermaritzburg, the capital of that colony.

Durban has only two rivals on the east coast, Port Elizabeth and Delagoa Bay, but in the last few years she has outstripped both of these in the race for commercial success and even threatens the supremacy of Cape Town.

For many years a sand bar at the entrance to the harbor of Durban almost prevented the growth of the port, but the enterprise of the Natal government has caused this bar to be cut through, so that now all but the largest ships may sail up to the wharves. There is still much dredging to be done, and big steamers are yet compelled to anchor in the roadstead off the harbor and send their freight ashore on lighters, but the Natal government keeps dredges busy almost all the time, and some day the harbor of Natal is destined to be the finest one on that coast.

Durban looks more like an American city than any other in South Africa. In spite of its tropical climate, there are snap and energy about the city and evidences of modern ways and methods. It is the principal gateway to the Transvaal and the Orange Free State. Through its warehouses pass the greater part of the goods which the two republics which are now joined in a desperate struggle against Great Britain buy and sell.

The imports at Durban for the first two months of the current year were 27,367 tons, valued at $530,828. Americans have a large and rapidly growing share in this business, and the reason is apparent from the following incident, which Mr. Stowe, United States consul general at Cape Town, relates as one of many similar:

"A Durban merchant said to me: 'I recently ordered five tons of hoop iron of an English manufacturer. After the order had gone forward one of four American salesmen came along and made me a price $10 a ton less. I gave him an order for five tons and then tried to have the English order canceled, but the English house refused, saying that 'no one could make and guarantee a first class article at the price named, and a test would prove it.' When the iron arrived, I tested both, and the American was several per cent better.'"

At the Durban hotel where he staid the American consul found the doors and trimmings and even the electric lights were of Yankee origin. "In fact," he said, "I was during my whole trip all the time putting my hand on something American. I was told that our screwdrivers, hammers, hatchets, chisels, etc., were so cheap, though good, that it did not pay to have them ground or repaired; that it was better and cheaper to buy new ones."

Durban is connected with Johannesburg and Pretoria by a railroad. Just now the connection is badly broken, for the Boers hold the greater part of the line. It was on this road, which runs from Durban through Pietermaritzburg and Ladysmith, that an English armored train was recently captured. Ladysmith is 189 miles from the coast, and the distance from Durban to Johannesburg by rail is 460 miles. A first class ticket for the latter ride costs $30.

The town of Durban itself is not built directly on the shore, which is low and flat, but rises in terraces on the hills which begin about a mile from the head of the harbor. It has wide, well paved, clean streets, which are shaded by huge palms and other tropical trees. There are several good hotels in the city and a very substantial municipal building, which is used not only as a town hall and postoffice, but which also contains a very good library. There are an opera house and an English club which has well appointed quarters.

The climate of Durban is delightful. It is high enough above the shore to escape the fever mists, and its tropical temperature is modified by cool winds, which seem to be forever blowing. The city is a favorite winter resort for Johannesburgers. It has been called "the Newport of South Africa."

Altogether Durban is a most interesting place, and just now, when it is filled with many soldiers and stirred with wild war rumors, it is one of the liveliest places on the continent of Africa.

CUBAN FLOWER

From Which the Island's Flag Was Originally Designed.

New York Tribune: There is now on exhibition in the conservatory of Prospect park a flowering plant which is known in Cuba as Blanco Estrella de Cinco Puntas. This plant is particularly interesting, as the Cubans originated the design of their flag from the flower of the plant. The box of plants was received by Park Commissioner George V. Brower, with the regards of Capt. W. Atwood French, who is stationed in Cienfuegos, Cuba. Capt. French, in his letter which accompanied the box of plants, states that the Cubans derive the emblematic star in their national flag, in color and the number of points, from the flower, which is a white star with five points. The star emblem is used by the Cubans on all the buttons of their uniforms, in stick pins, brooches and jewelry worn by women. Continuing, the captain says: "The plant is, truly speaking, a la Cuban in almost every particular, except, of course, color, as no one ever saw a Cuban lady as blanco as is this flower, except after cinco o'clock p. m., when she sallies forth with blanco powder (thick), accompanied by her chaperon (in all cases), usually a little brother or the old grandmother, who is on the watch to see that she does not notice the young Cuban beau and blush the blush coloring away and give them encouragement. They are exceedingly shy and reserved, and never look at any one while taking their daily afternoon promenade."

An Ancient Office Vacant.

The ancient office of "headsman and executioner of the queen" has just become vacant through the death at the Tower of London of old Stephen Sweeney, who, in addition to his other titles, bore that of "Yeoman Gaoler to Her Majesty." He was a very picturesque figure in his costume of the sixteenth century, consisting of long scarlet tunic, slashed with black velvet, loose red knickerbockers, red stockings, with rosettes of red, white and blue ribbon at the knees and upon the low shoes.

An Experimental Electric Line.

An English engineer has constructed an experimental electric line on which miniature carriages travel at the rate of 240 miles an hour. The design is to convey postal matter only, and notwithstanding the high speed, it is asserted that the carriages can be almost instantly stopped at any point by simply pressing a button.

GOODEN WRITES FROM PHILIPPINES

BAND GIVEN ARMS INSTEAD OF INSTRUMENTS.

Janesville Boy Expects to Reach Home This Year After Serving Three Years in the Army Band—His Health is Excellent—Many of the Soldiers Homesick.

William H. Gooden, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Gooden, 51 North Bluff street, has sent several interesting letters here of late from the Philippine Islands where he has been stationed for several months as a member of the Twenty-First United States Infantry band.

His last letter to reach local relatives was written from Calamba and in it Mr. Gooden stated that he was with the band as they marched playing into the town after the place had been captured by the Americans. On several occasions at night the city was attacked by the insurgents who were given more than their share of trouble by the Americans who lost no time in killing large numbers of the enemy, who always managed to keep at what they thought was a safe distance.

During these night attacks the band members turned soldiers and with rifles patrolled the business and residence streets to keep the natives from uprising. Mr. Gooden says that at such a time and place rifles counted more than band instruments.

In writing of the weather Mr. Gooden says that of late it has been excellent and that with the close of the rainy season the soldiers all look for excellent weather. Many United States war ships have been in close touch with their regiment and have rendered valuable assistance at times.

In the way of good things to eat Mr. Gooden says that rice is used by the army in large quantities. Salt fish and hard tack are also used in abundance while now and then "artillery" pie finds its way on the bill of fare. Mr. Gooden says that his health is excellent and that he expects to return home this summer as his three year time then expires.

Many of the boys are homesick, he adds, and are only too anxious to return to the United States.

GRANDCHILDREN AGAIN DEFEATED

Circuit Court Orders Morgan Will to Probate. Thus Ending Celebrated Legal Action.

Judge B. F. Dunwiddie in the circuit court of Rock county this morning overruled the motion for a new trial in the matter of the will of the late Rebecca Morgan.

By this ruling of the court it means that the will will now be admitted to probate. The case has been one of long standing, and at all times has been stubbornly contested by the interested attorneys.

The seven grandchildren who contested the will have to be each satisfied with the $100 left them by their grandmother, the late Rebecca Morgan, whom they alleged made out her will surrounded by undue influence.

MANY ATTENDED THE MEETING

Interesting Session at the Y. M. C. A. Building Yesterday Afternoon

One hundred and four men attended the Y. M. C. A. meeting yesterday afternoon. A. J. Clark led the meeting, talking for his subject, "Our Lives as Examples." Rev. Van Slyke of Cleveland, was present, and spoke in behalf of the Seaman's Bethel or boarding houses for the sailors of the inland lakes. His talk was instructive, and gave those present an idea of how the sailors thrive along the lakes.

M. J. Walsh and F. C. Strickland of this city left today for Rockford where they will attend a meeting of the agents of the Prudential Life Insurance company who will be given a banquet at the Nelson Hotel. Agents from this district will be in attendance to the number of one hundred.

DEATH OF MRS. HENNING

Ill Since Last August With That Fatal Disease Consumption

Mrs. Jennie Henning, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Rock, died yesterday morning at 10 o'clock at the Pine street home of her sister, Mrs. Kate Schumacher. Cause of her demise was consumption. Mrs. Henning has been ill since last August, and besides a husband she leaves two children. Funeral services will be held from St. Patrick's church Tuesday at 9:30 o'clock and the interment will be in Mount Olivet cemetery.

Mrs. E. W. Goodspeed

Mrs. Edgar W. Goodspeed, a former resident of Janesville, died at the home of her son, Prof. George S. Goodspeed, of Chicago. Mrs. Goodspeed will be remembered by many of the old residents of Janesville as being the wife of Rev. Dr. Goodspeed, a former pastor of the First Baptist church of this city.

John Lock

John Lock died at 8:30 o'clock Sunday morning at his home in Albion, Wis. Mr. Lock was fifty-five years of age and was a brother-in-law to N. N. Jackman. Funeral services will be held Wednesday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock from Edgerton.

MENU FOR TUESDAY.

None but the guilty can long be comfortably miserable.—Anon.

BREAKFAST.

Broiled Mackerel, Fine Herb Sauce.
Fried Hominy, Potato Balls.
Wheat Cakes, Syrup.
Coffee.

DINNER.

Cream of Clams.
Raspberries, Figs, Celery.
Pigeon Pie, Bacon.
Tomatoes, Stewed Celery.
Lettuce Salad.
Mince Pies in Burning Brandy.

BROWNED HASHED POTATOES.—This is perhaps the most wholesome way to fry potatoes. Chop two cold potatoes rather fine, dust them with pepper and salt. Put a tablespoonful of butter into a cold saucepan, stand it where it will melt without browning. When hot, put in the potatoes, smooth down and stand on the back part of range where they will cook slowly for ten minutes, guarding them carefully that they may be only a light brown. Fold them over as you would an omelet and turn out on hot dish.

WOMAN UNABLE TO FIND POLICEMAN

TRAVELING MAN RAISED HAVOC LAST EVENING.

While Badly Intoxicated He Tried to Enter the Home of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Harvey—His Arrest Finally Brought About—Is Prominent and Well Known Here.

Mrs. Wm. B. Harvey 32 South Main street, hunted one hour last night for an officer in the hopes of bringing about the arrest of a drunken intruder who made a bold effort to enter her apartment located over her restaurant. Officer Benke then put in an appearance and taking the drunken man in charge took him to a hotel.

Officer Benke says that the man is a prominent traveling man and that his disclosure would ruin him and do a great injustice to his family.

Mrs. Harvey says that near the midnight hour she and her husband were awakened by some one who kept up a loud noise in their efforts to break down the outside door. The intruder then broke in one of the windows with his foot. Failing in this to gain entrance he again resumed his pounding on the door.

Mrs. Harvey frequently called to the man to stop but he paid no attention but kept up his persistent pounding. Then Mrs. Harvey left her husband, who is blind, and started out in the dead of night to find an officer. After going the length of Main and Milwaukee streets she returned without having once caught a glimpse of a guardian of the peace. When she returned the intoxicated man had left her place and had gone to the top of the stairs one door south that leads to W. E. Clinton & Co. book bindery establishment. In the meantime Officer Benke had heard that Mrs. Harvey was out after an officer and he responded taking the man in charge.

ENGINEER BROWN THREATENS SUIT

CITY OF JANESVILLE MAY BE THE DEFENDANT.

City Engineer Wants Back Pay and Has Placed the Matter in the Hands of Attorney E. D. McGowan—Law-suit Will Follow if Settlement is Not Made.

City Engineer Perry F. Brown has engaged the services of Attorney E. D. McGowan for the purpose of commencing a law suit against the City of Janesville for the collection of a bill amounting to $146.50.

Engineer Brown alleges that the city is indebted to him for this amount for civil engineering work done in connection with paving Jackson and other streets. In case the city aldermen do not see fit to settle with Engineer Brown the case will at once be carried into the courts for settlement.

At a meeting of the common council held two weeks ago Engineer Brown's bill was presented but not allowed. Certain objections were then made on the grounds that the bill was not itemized and also that it was too excessive. Engineer Brown says that the bill was only for work that he performed and that it is not in excess of what is charged for such labor by civil engineers.

This evening the common council meets in regular semi-monthly session. What promises to be the leading point of interest is the West Milwaukee street paving question. All but nine property owners on West Milwaukee street have elected to pay their assessment for the paving of the street. The nine are Nicholas Fredricka, James and Edward Concors, Philip Carroll, Mary H. Scherlitzauer, Carrie M. Chase, Hiram Merrill, Dr. Twing B. Wiggin, Alex. Richardson and Mary C. Poole.

Osteopathy is Not a Theory.

Editor Gazette:—In your issue of Saturday night I noticed an article depicting the indiscriminate use of the title Doctor. Be that as it may, I was amused over the classification of osteopathy. The commentator evidently is not aware of the fact that the science of osteopathy is not a theory, but it is a recognized school of practice in the healing art. Its colleges of instruction are located at Kirksville, Mo., Boston, Mass., Des Moines, Ia., Minneapolis, Minn., Los Angeles, Cal., and Milwaukee, Wis., all of which are members of the Associated Colleges which provide an established curriculum of study that vies with the curriculum of the average recognized medical college of this country. The major difference is that in place of materia medica we have the study of osteopathic principles. Our course of study covers a period of four terms of five months each, which means ten consecutive months of study per year. The course in most medical colleges covers four terms of six months each, with the stipulation "no two terms taken in the same year." I mention this solely for the purpose of calling attention to the fact that the Osteopathic course covering two years' time, is but four months less than the Medical course covering four years' time, and refuting the assumption that the Osteopathist enters the field of therapeutics without the necessary knowledge of the human body and its care.

Chaucer in the 14th century wrote of the "Doctor of Phisikes," and possibly since a time nearer the founding of the Hippocratic School of Medicine in the 4th century, the title doctor has been arrogated by the medical men of the old school, and as fondly and tenaciously clung to as did some of the medieval monarchs to their faith in the divine right of kings.

Near the middle of the last century the disciples of Hahnemann had their right to the title contested. They have proven their merit and held their ground.

In the evolution of therapeutics, Osteopathy, by its demonstrated merit, has achieved legal recognition in many of the states, and the degree conferred is Doctor of Osteopathy, and the title being honestly earned, is neither begged, stolen, or borrowed. The title doctor has lost its old time restriction, its definition is teacher; hence we have the justly conferred degree of D. D., L. L. D., and Ph. D. In any case, the comparative consideration of the triumvirate—man, vocation, title, the latter is but infinitesimal.

I have no desire to rush into print, but felt that silence on my part would be less than loyal to the science I represent.

MANY FROM HERE ATTENDED FUNERAL

NELSON TAYLOR'S REMAINS BURIED AT EDGERTON

Brother to Mrs. J. L. Bear and A. H. Taylor Both Of This City—Was Well Known and Popular—Demise of Mrs. Jennie Henning of This City, Yesterday Morning.

Many residents of this city and vicinity were in Edgerton this afternoon, where they attended funeral services over the remains of the late Nelson Taylor, who died at his Edgerton home on Thursday evening.

Mr. Taylor was a brother of Mrs. J. L. Bear and A. H. Taylor, both of Janesville.

From the Congregational church at Edgerton, services were held at 1:30, and were largely attended, the edifice being filled with sorrowing friends. Elder Sewall officiated, assisted by the Congregational pastor.

The funeral was in charge of members of the Masonic order, and the interment was in the cemetery at Edgerton.

Mr. Taylor would have been sixty three years of age next May. Besides a wife he leaves a son Arthur Taylor of New York city.

Among those in attendance from Janesville were: Ex-Sheriff and Mrs. J. L. Bear, Judge C. L. Fifield, District Attorney W. A. Jackson, Register of Deeds O. D. Rowe, Robert Bear, T. R. Taylor and A. H. Taylor.

TO HONOR CRYSTAL WEDDING

Fifty Friends will be Guests of M. G. Jeffris and Wife

Fifty friends will be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. M. G. Jeffris this evening at their spacious South Main street home. The function will be in honor of fifteen years of wedded bliss on the part of the host and hostess. A supper fit for a king will be in order at 6 o'clock to be followed by an all around good time. The guests will dress in old fashioned attire and will present Mr. and Mrs. Jeffris with a cut glass offering.

PICTURE DISCLOSES OVERCOAT THIEF

Arrest of Telegraph Student May Follow on Complaint of Rufus Yates, a Fellow Student.

Rufus Yates of Marquette county, arrived in Janesville two weeks ago to attend Valentine Bros' school of telegraphy. Aside from a good sized trunk Rufus brought along a new overcoat that was worth $10 of any man's money.

A few days ago a fellow student on graduating with high honors was consigned to a railroad office out in Iowa. When he left the local school it is alleged that he took such a liking to the overcoat owned by Rufus that he appropriated it for his own use. When the theft was made known suspicion at once rested on the man who had gone to Iowa. The police in the Iowa town were notified. They secured a kodak picture of the coat as it was being worn by the student as he came from work. This picture was sent here and has been identified by Mr. Yates who says he is positive the coat is his. A button taken from the coat and forwarded here by the Iowa officers was also identified by Mr. Yates. The arrest of the guilty party may follow.

Eyre's Body Is Discovered.

Philadelphia, Jan. 22.—The body of George B. Eyre, the wealthy resident of Chester who disappeared three weeks ago, was found this afternoon by John Carney on the marsh of Racoon creek, opposite Chester. He had been murdered. There were two bullet wounds in his head, the skull was crushed, and the hands and feet were tied. The body had evidently been under the water for some time with weights attached to it.

.. LATE NEWS BY TELEGRAPH ..

THIS WEEK IN CONGRESS.

A Forecast of Some Prospective Legislation.

ROBERTS CASE COMES FIRST.

Majority and Minority Committee Reports Will Be Submitted—The Nicaragua Canal Bill Will Surely Pass—The Clark Case Still in Committee.

Washington, Jan. 22.—The feature of the proceedings in the house this week will be the consideration of the case of Brigham H. Roberts, the Mormon representative-elect from Utah. The case will be called up on Tuesday, and two or three days will be devoted to it. The majority of the committee which investigated the case will hold that Mr. Roberts should be excluded, while the minority will contend that he be seated and then be expelled, basing its argument for this course upon the ground that Mr. Roberts possesses all the constitutional qualifications for membership, and that any attempt to exclude him upon the theory that congress has the power to add to those qualifications would establish a dangerous precedent that might return to plague congress in the future. Should Mr. Roberts be seated in accordance with the contention of the minority, a resolution to expel him will be immediately offered, and this doubtless will carry by an almost unanimous vote, although the majority, in its report, insists that, once seated, a member cannot be expelled for acts committed before he was a member of the house. Tomorrow will be devoted to District of Columbia affairs and Friday to eulogies upon the life and public services of the late Vice-President Hobart.

The Hepburn-Morgan Nicaraguan canal bill will be passed during the present session of congress. Speaker Henderson is in favor of the bill and of prompt action. Senator Frye, president pro tempore of the senate, wants action by the senate, and expresses the belief that the bill will be passed at an early date. The measure will receive the approval of the president. Representative Payne's bill to extend the customs and internal revenue laws of the United States over the island of Puerto Rico will be considered by the house committee on ways and means during the present week. It will be favorably reported by the votes of all the republican members of the committee and probably Representative Newlands. It is not certain, however, that the report will be made this week. The similar bill extending the revenue laws over Hawaii is also to be pushed as rapidly as possible. The present policy of the administration and of the leaders in congress is to have the Philippines permanently retain their own tariff against the United States and all other countries, giving all other nations the same trade advantages that are enjoyed by the United States in accordance with the "open-door" principle.

Little new information was developed in the Clark senatorial investigation by the senate committee on privileges and elections. T. F. Nor-moile of Butte, Mont., a member of the last legislature, testified that he had been approached with an offer of $12,500 to vote for Mr. Clark, but had not accepted it, and had voted for Conrad throughout the contest.

England Is Not. London, Jan. 22.—A dispatch to the Daily News from Copenhagen says there is good authority for the statement that the government is preparing an arrangement regarding the Danish West Indies, entering a kind of Zollverein with the United States. This is probably the first step in the cession of the islands to the American government.

Mollieux' Sunday in Tomb. New York, Jan. 22.—Roland B. Mollieux had no callers in the Tombs Sunday. The murder trial will be resumed today and, according to the assurances of Assistant District Attorney Osborne, the testimony for the prosecution will all be in tomorrow, or nearly. The defense has announced that it is ready to proceed.

Is Mrs. Lettgart Alive? Chicago, Jan. 22.—The Sheriff of Akron, Ohio, telegraphed to the police last night that Mrs. Lettgart, now dead in the estimate of the law, is in his charge. He added that he was so sure there was no mistake that he had mailed a photograph along with a detailed description of her.

Paroled Prisoner Who Killed His Enemy Is Safe in Jail.

Columbia City, Ind., Jan. 22.—Henry Wiesweaver, who last night shot and killed John Burns in a drunken row, is safe in jail. A feud has existed between the men and each had declared that he would kill the other on sight. They met last night and after a few words Wiesweaver shot his enemy. Wiesweaver escaped, but bloodhounds were put on his track and he was apprehended about 5 o'clock this morning, and for a time it seemed as though there would be a lynching. Both men were well-known characters of this city. Wiesweaver is out of Jeffersonville prison on parole.

Jeffries Ready for Training.

New York, Jan. 22.—Champion James J. Jeffries will cease giving exhibitions on the road this week and will go to Allentown, N. J., to prepare for his coming battle with James J. Corbett. While this match is generally pooh-poohed by sporting men because of the belief that Corbett has not a chance, there are others who feel that the man who conquered John L. Sullivan may get into condition once more so as to get an opportunity to outpoint Jeffries through sheer cleverness. The champion says that after he has met Corbett he intends to take a long rest in spite of his manager, W. A. Brady, who wants him to continue on the road.

McCoy and the Y. M. C. A.

White Plains, Jan. 22.—It became common gossip today that Kid McCoy, the prize fighter, has lost a host of friends among the sporting element here. McCoy has refused to contribute his services or give financial aid to an entertainment to be given for the benefit of the Y. M. C. A. of the town. Superintendent of Schools S. H. Chear and the secretary of the local association called on McCoy at his home here and asked his assistance. The latter informed them that as he was ostracized from that order by reason of his calling there was to be no help expected from him, either in sparring, posing or in any other way.

Veteran's Mysterious Death.

La Crosse, Wis., Jan. 22.—Charles Schultz, a veteran of the civil war and a former member of the Ninety-fourth New York regiment, was found dead in bed in a lodging-house here this morning under rather mysterious circumstances. The authorities are investigating the matter. Schultz was an inmate of the Milwaukee National Soldiers' home and had been here for some weeks past. He was known to have had quite a large sum of money recently. He was about 70 years of age.

Great Britain in Bermuda.

Washington, Jan. 22.—Information has been received here that Great Britain is preparing to place at her big naval station in the Bermuda one of the largest floating dry docks ever constructed and far greater in capacity than any which is now at that point, said to be the longest in the world. The present dock was constructed in 1869, and towed in four pieces across the Atlantic to Ireland island, where the British dockyard is located.

British Steamer Sinks.

Lewes, Del., Jan. 22.—The British steamer Sutton, with a cargo of iron ore from Porman for Philadelphia, ran on Fenwick islands shoals in a dense fog and now lies a complete wreck. While the vessel struck early yesterday it was not until late last evening that the fog lifted sufficiently to allow a patrolman of the life station service to discern her burning distress rockets.

Bailey Says It's Absurd.

Dallas, Texas, Jan. 22.—The Hon. J. W. Bailey, congressman from the Fifth district, telegraphed today from Washington to friends in Dallas that the report sent out from Denison, Texas, that he is to retire from the race for United States senator and run for re-election to the house of representatives, "is too absurd to merit contradiction."

Jury Fails to Agree.

Oshkosh, Wis., Jan. 22.—For the second time a jury has failed to find a verdict in the case of John Campbell, accused of murder. After deliberating for nearly two days and being unable to agree, the jury was discharged at noon today. It is reported that the case will not be dropped.

Elkhart Girl Fatally Burned.

Elkhart, Ind., Jan. 22.—Lulu, the 17-year-old daughter of the Rev. Charles H. Brown, pastor of Trinity Methodist church, fell in a faint against an oil stove and was fatally burned. The Rev. Mr. Brown sustained severe burns in extinguishing the flames.

South Carolina Tragedy.

Columbia, S. C., Jan. 22.—At North, S. C., D. Jefcoat shot down his brother, James A. Jefcoat. As he lay wounded on the ground the father fired into the prostrate body, killing his son. It was the ending of a family quarrel of long standing. The Jefcoats are prosperous farmers.

Camels on Russian Farms.

In southern Russia camels are much used by farmers for field work. They even stand the climate fairly well farther north.

DEATH IN AN EARTHQUAKE.

Seven Killed in Shock at Colima, Mexico.

MANY BUILDINGS ARE BURNED.

Reports from the Interior of Mexico Show That Great Havoc Was Wrought by the Shock—Sixty Persons Are Injured.

Colima, Mexico, Jan. 22.—An earthquake shock began here at a quarter before midnight Friday and assumed serious proportions at Teimata, many houses being badly injured and some of light construction wrecked. There was great consternation and persons rushed into the streets some barely escaping with their lives. Seven persons were killed outright and sixty were wounded and are being cared for by local surgeons. It was reported that the volcano had burst into eruption, but this was untrue. Local scientific men believe that the earthquake traveled from under the Pacific ocean. The governor of this state has appointed a commission to inspect the churches and public edifices, while owners of houses injured in the earthquake will be compelled to put them in condition of safety.

Many Buildings Injured.

Guadalajara, Mexico, Jan. 22.—At midnight Friday an earthquake shock cracked the arches and staircases of the state palace and the porticos of the university and De Gallado theater, the latter one of the most massive structures here. The churches of San Francisco and San Jose were damaged. The government has closed Sagrario church, fearing the dome will fall in. Carmen barracks were badly damaged and news from Zapotlan and Sarula states that several houses were demolished. The shock was felt severely at San Blas, on the Pacific, and noises underground were heard resembling the hoarse rumbling of a heavy sea dashing on shore. Meteorologist Contreras predicts a repetition of the shocks.

Slight Shock at Vera Cruz.

Vera Cruz, Mexico, Jan. 22.—The earthquake traveled across the country, reaching here just after midnight Saturday morning. The shock was comparatively light here.

FLEE FROM NATIVES.

Americans Are Ambushed—Two Are Killed—Pack Train Left.

Manila, Jan. 22.—On Thursday a pack train escorted by fifty men of company C, Thirtieth infantry, Lieut. Ralston commanding, was ambushed near Lipa, province of Laguna, and two Americans were killed, four were wounded and nine were missing. The insurgents fired three volleys at close range, and the escort was obliged to retreat, after killing fifteen of the insurgents. Several animals of the pack train were killed and their packs were looted.

The escort consisted of fifty convalescents from the hospital, who were going to rejoin the regiment. The insurgents hid in the bushes along the road and opened fire upon the pack train from three sides. The Americans, in addition to their casualties, were compelled to abandon the train, which consisted of twenty-two horses. The latter, with their packs, all fell into the hands of the insurgents, who pursued the retreating escort for three miles along the road until the Americans were re-enforced. The affair is being investigated.

THREE ITALIANS MURDERED.

Shot to Death During an Interfamily Row in New York.

New York, Jan. 22.—Three Italians were shot to death in an interfamily row in an Italian tenement house in East Eleventh street at noon. The dead are:

Antonio Colletti, 37 years of age, married, shot through the lung.
Casper Colletti, 19 years of age, brother of Antonio, shot in the breast.
David Salvatore, 40 years of age, cousin of the Collettis, shot in the stomach.
Vincenzo Spinella and his son Frank, 17 years of age, have been arrested and charged with the murder, and the police are still searching for Frank Spinella, brother of Vincenzo, who also played a part in the tragedy.

Death of Ex-Chief Ebersold.

Chicago, Jan. 22.—Frederick Ebersold, who was chief of police at the time of the Haymarket riot, died at his home at 4401 Lake avenue, after an illness which has lasted for some time. His wife, Julia S. Ebersold, three sons and two daughters survive him.

To Enlist with Boers.

New Orleans, La., Jan. 22.—I. H. Alexis, who was a lieutenant in the Roosevelt rough riders and was wounded at San Juan, but who is now a clerk in the postoffice, has given notice of his intention to resign in order to enlist two or more companies of rough riders for service with the Boers in South Africa. Alexis says that he was commissioned to do so by Otto Van Buelah, a German officer who arrived here a short time ago from Mexico provided with the necessary papers from President Kruger and Gen. Joubert and with an abundance of money.

BILL COLE AT HOME.

Notorious Outlaw Returns to His Ranch in Nebraska.

Chadron, Neb., Jan. 22.—Bill Cole has returned to his ranch near here, after an enforced absence of nearly fifteen years. He spent most of those years in the Wyoming penitentiary. Cole attained much notoriety through northwestern Nebraska and the Black Hills about 1885, as the running mate of Shacknasty Jim, the most famous bandit the Black Hills country ever developed. Cole has just been released from the penitentiary, where Fred Hans, now a detective in the employ of the Northwestern Railroad company, placed him, after one of the most exciting fights in the border history of this section. Incidentally Hans was forced to shoot Shacknasty Jim. Cole was also shot by Hans, but he recovered and served his term. The chase after these two desperate characters and their capture, single handed, by Fred Hans, constitutes one of the most exciting chapters in the criminal annals of the northwest. Jim's grave today on the trail, near Casper, Wyo., is marked by a pile of stones erected by some of the stockmen of that section. He died of his wounds several weeks after the big fight, in which he and Cole were taken.

Cole was given a twenty-year sentence for the murder of John Rhodes, a passenger on the overland stage, whom he killed while robbing the treasure box, but he secured his release as a result of "good time" a few weeks ago. Now he announces that his declining years he will spend in lawful pursuits on his ranch near here.

Fashion's Echoes.

It has been considered good taste all the year through to wear real lace even in the daytime, and one of the great costumers in Paris has been laying narrow bands of Spanish point over strips of dark, long haired fur, so that some of the hairs are visible between the interstices of the pattern.

The edict is said to be coming from Paris which will insist upon a woman putting her hair in the middle. Such visions as this rumor calls forth none but a woman whose hair has been rolled back for nearly two years and who has tried to get a pretty, even, white part can understand.

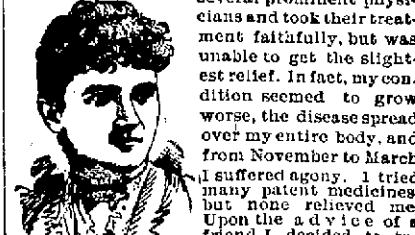

Deep plum, garnet, gray and tan are fashionable colors for cloth and velvet gowns.

Narrow bands of fur, and especially sable, are a prominent feature of dress attire.

Oh, the Pain of Rheumatism!

Rheumatism often causes the most intense suffering. Many have for years vainly sought relief from this disabling disease, and are to-day worse off than ever. Rheumatism is a blood disease, and Swift's Specific is the only cure, because it is the only remedy which can reach such deep-seated diseases.

A few years ago I was taken with inflammatory Rheumatism, which became so intense that I was for weeks unable to walk. I tried several prominent physicians and took their treatment faithfully, but was unable to get the slightest relief. In fact, my condition seemed to grow worse, the disease spread over my entire body, and from November to March I suffered agony. I tried many patent medicines, but none relieved me. Upon the advice of a friend I decided to try

S. S. S. Before allowing me to take it, however, my guardian, who was a chemist, analyzed the remedy, and pronounced it free of potash or mercury. I felt so much better after taking two bottles, that I continued the remedy, and in two months I was cured completely. The cure was permanent, for I have never since had a touch of Rheumatism, though many times exposed to damp and cold weather.

STORIES FROM THE FRONT

Soldiers' Letters Which Throw Vivid Side Lights on the Nature of the Fighting in South Africa.

BY LIEUTENANT H. R. GAHAN.

Some of the most vivid stories of the fighting in South Africa have been written not by the trained newspaper correspondents, but by Tommy Atkins himself. These stories have been parts of letters which he has penned during lulls in the campaign and which he has sent across the ocean to "the folks at home." The latter, proud of their soldier boy, have sent these letters to the newspapers, whose editors, unable to communicate with their censor board correspondents, have been glad to get them.

Homely pictures most of these letter writing soldiers have painted, but in spite of their crudeness they give a clearer idea of the kind of trouble the experiences of the British troops and citizens cooped up in the besieged cities, Ladysmith, Kimberley and Mafeking. But a few anecdotes have already found their way through the lines and across the big waters.

It appears that during the long siege of Ladysmith the besieged soldiers and civilians alike, have become veritable cave dwellers. "Some people," writes a private who managed to get his letter through the lines, "have spent weeks in digging burrows for themselves and yet prefer to take their chances above ground because of the intense monotony of living in a hole in the earth. Others pass whole days with wives and families in solitary misery, where there is not light enough to read or work, scarcely showing a head outside from sunrise to sunset. They may be seen trooping away from fragile tin roofed houses half an hour before daybreak, carrying children in their arms or a cat or monkey or mongoose or a cage of pet birds, and they come back similarly laden when the night gets too dim for gunners to go on shooting."

"There would be a touch of humor in all this if it were not so deeply pathetic in its close associations with possible tragedies. One never knows where or what hour a stray shot or splinter will fall, and it is pitiful sometimes to hear cries for dolly from a prattling mite who may herself be fatherless or motherless tomorrow. We think as little as possible of such things, putting them from us with the light comment that they happen daily elsewhere than in besieged towns and making the best we can of a melancholy situation."

"The Imperial Light horse have amused themselves at Ladysmith by constructing tunnels to the river bank, connecting dark caves in which whole regiments might be hidden. Knowledge of mining is sometimes useful, though there be no precious metal to be dug out. In these caves the men find cooling relief from the burning sun."

Here is another story from Ladysmith. Its humor is quite refreshing: "The Boers have found a rather unique use for the shell and one that isn't without its cleverness. A lot of the treck oxen belonging to us had been feeding on the veldt outside and wandered farther than their discretion should have permitted. The Boers the British are experiencing at the hands of the Boers than anything which has yet been put in print.

Here is an extract from a letter written by a private in General White's force in Ladysmith:

"We were a few miles out of Ladysmith collecting the wounded who had tumbled at the Nicholson's neck fight when we came across two of our boys, one shot in the neck and the other, a Gloucester had whom I knew, in the leg. As soon as he saw me he said: 'Never mind my leg. Let that look after itself. Be a good pal and give us a pipe of your tobacco. I'm dying for a smoke.' Our sergeant said, 'You shall have it when we have propped you up comfortably in the van.' This same chum is now in hospital here minus his left leg."

A borderer, writing from Durban, speaks of the comeliness of the women at Ladysmith during the battle of Paardeburg. "Some of the more courageous," he says, "had ventured on the hill beside us to see the battle and were standing conspicuously dressed in white. On their being asked to sit down and keep out of sight, as they made a splendid target for the enemy's guns, one woman calmly replied that she was not going to soil her dress by sitting on the dirty ground."

Here are the comments of another soldier. They throw a vivid side light on the character of the fighting. He is writing of the battle of Elandsdlaagter: "As the Gordons advanced up the stony kopjes toward the enemy it would appear that the men were not sufficiently extended to enable each man to take full advantage of the cover afforded by the rocks. Two of the men indeed had a scuffle for the shelter of a stone that could not suffice for one, and the men almost forgot the whirling of the enemy's bullets in their own set to."

"The Boers of course had the pull there, and where the natural displacement of the whistling rocks on the kopjes did not exactly suit their ideas of defense they had placed one stone on top of another or had laid one stone flat across the other two, placed perpendicularly, the space between serving as a loophole."

"Behind these little fortresses would always be found piles of empty Mauser cartridge cases. Behind one of them was the dead body of an elderly

"DYING FOR A SMOKE."

Boer, of the regular 'bifwoner' type, shot twice through the head. The pile of empty cartridge cases beside the body would easily have filled an ordinary hatbox."

In due time there will come to us many interesting stories concerning

SWIMMING FEAT OF A CHILD.

Astonishing Courage and Coolness Displayed by a Little Girl.

The importance of early instruction in the art of swimming received a striking illustration in the recent rescue from drowning of a 6-year-old girl at Port Jefferson, N. Y., says Leslie's Weekly. The child saved was Clarice Pettit, the little daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Henry Pettit of Brooklyn. Dr. Pettit, who is a physical instructor in Adelphi college, was out sailing with his wife, three children, including Clarice, and a maid, in his yacht, the Orient. Mrs. Pettit was at the wheel, when a sudden gust caused the yacht to heel to port, and Clarice was thrown into the water. Dr. Pettit sprang to her rescue, but the child had disappeared. She soon came to the surface, however, near the dingy, where she sustained herself for a moment on an oar. Hearing her father call her name, the little one let go her support and swam toward him, and the two, a moment later, were picked up and safely restored to the yacht, but little the worse for their experience. The unusual feature of the affair was the astonishing coolness and courage displayed by the child, an evidence of the excellent physical training she has received. Although the little swimmer sank beneath the waves several times after going overboard, she gave not the slightest sign of fear or excitement, but seemed perfectly confident in her own power to sustain herself until help should come. When asked, after her return to the yacht, why she had let go the oar, she said: "I could not seem to swim fast enough with it." Of her experience under the water she remarked: "It was dark down there, but I kept my mouth shut so that I would not swallow water." Such presence of mind in a 6-year-old child is as rare as it is remarkable.

American Oyster Trade.

American oysters rank among the best in the world, and the export list is growing all the time. England takes about 3,000 barrels a week all the year round. Gone, says the New York Sun, are the days of the old Saddle Rocks, which no man could place entire in his mouth, which for trying were the Elysium of the Philadelphia chef. In the old days there were only three centers for oysters—Baltimore, New York and New Haven. The best oysters came from Blue Point, Oak Haven, Buzzard's Bay (deep water), Lynn Haven (Chesapeake), Shrewsbury, Mill Pond, Rockaway, Maurice River Cove (mouth of Delaware), Great South and Lower Bay. Experts in the business say that the finest oysters obtainable are in the first weeks of May, as then the fat, luscious, Virginia oysters come north to be planted. Virginia oysters are placed in spawn in "spat beds" along the deeper water shores of bays and estuaries. Each is capable of producing 1,000,000 eggs.

Women Freemasons in France.

French women have the privilege of being enrolled as Freemasons, and, indeed, if they choose, they can join a lodge open to both sexes, which has for grand mistress a lady named Mme. George Martin. The mixed lodge is only some six years old and already numbers 200 members, two-thirds of these being women. Perhaps one inducement for French women to become Freemasons is that they are entitled to wear the same gay insignia, although their alleged reason is that it prevents husband and wife from drifting apart.

I want to let the people know who suffer from rheumatism and sciatica know that Chamberlain's Pain Balm relieved me after a number of other medicines and a doctor had failed. For maps, books of the tour, tickets, etc., call on Agents of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway.

It has been demonstrated repeatedly in every state in the Union and in many foreign countries that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is a certain preventive and cure for croup. It has become the universal remedy for that disease. M. V. Fisher of Liberty, W. Va., only repeats what has been said around the globe when he writes: "I have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in my family for several years and always with perfect success. We believe that it is not only the best cough remedy, but that it is a sure cure for croup. It has saved the lives of our children a number of times." This remedy is for sale by Smith's Pharmacy, next to postoffice, Kodak agents.

No Deception Used in Talking About Morrow's Kid-ne-oids.

The Arguments in Their Favor Come From People Who Have Tested Their Merits.

There is no deception in anything we publish about Morrow's Kid-ne-oids. All our statements are facts and are from people right here in Wisconsin. People in all walks of life are using and recommending Kid-ne-oids because they cure backache, nervousness, sleeplessness and general debility in cases where other remedies have failed.

Mrs. P. Jenkins, 618 Broad street, Beloit, Wis., says: "I take pleasure in recommending Morrow's Kid-ne-oids to any person suffering from kidney backache. A sample of Kid-ne-oids used according to directions removed the pain from the small of my back and I have not been troubled with backache since."

Morrow's Kid-ne-oids are not pills (but yellow tablets and sell at fifty cents a box at all drug stores and a The People's Drug Store.

Mailed on receipt of price. Manufactured by John Morrow & Co., chemists, Springfield Ohio.

SCIENCE FOR FARMERS' WIVES

New Association For Spreading the Evangel of Progress to the Farmhouse Kitchen.

BY MARY E. LEONARD.

The scientific housekeeper, she who is up in kitchen chemistry, sanitation and all sorts of hygienic trills, may now be found in many towns and villages as well as in large cities. Very soon you will find her on the farm too. A movement which is now spreading rapidly through the agricultural districts of Illinois and which is bound to be carried to other states very soon is one whose aim is to teach domestic science to the farmer's wife.

The Illinois Association of Domestic Science, although organized a little over a year, already has branches in 50 counties and is a strong and vigorous body. Its members are farmers' wives, and it is run in the interest of farmers' wives. They are going to learn how to reach the hearts of their men folks by the same old route, but by new scientific methods. They are exploring the mysteries of drainage, ventilation and water filtering. They are conning nutrition tables, getting on bowing terms with parliamentary usage and experiencing the delights of organized debate. Not only are they acquiring much useful information, but they are breaking the monotony of farm life by attending club meetings and conventions.

The Illinois Association of Domestic Science has grown out of a suggestion made about two years ago at the annual meeting of the Illinois farmers' institute, held at Champaign, Ill. The suggestion was received with enthusiasm and a preliminary gathering held, at which were elected the following officers: President, Mrs. Joseph Carter of Champaign; vice president at large, Mrs. E. M. Coffman of Mechanicsburg; secretary, Mrs. Emma J. Davenport of Urbana.

Following this meeting letters were sent out over the state stating the objects of the proposed organization, and MRS. EMMA J. DAVENPORT.

30 counties responded immediately. So the first annual convention was held last February, when the farmers' institute met at Princeton. This year the farmers' wives will meet at Mount Vernon.

Not only do these domestic science women take part in state and county meetings of the farmers' institute, but so interested are they that in many parts township meetings are held regularly. These township gatherings are in the nature of a study club for women. Frequently they are called the Neighborhood club. They occur fortnightly or monthly and include discussion or demonstration—sometimes both—on cookery, sanitation, home surroundings, architecture of the home, house furnishing and even family finances. Courses of study are furnished for this purpose.

One of the most interesting township clubs meets with Mrs. Dunlap in her kitchen in Savoy. Every two weeks the 35 members, mostly from the farm, come together. Two young girls regularly come six miles to the meeting. These women roll up their sleeves and with the materials furnished by Mrs. Dunlap proceed to make some gastronomic delicacy.

There is an educational phase to this domestic science movement that is most desirable. These women not only propose to perfect themselves, but to introduce cooking wherever possible in the rural schools. As an example of what has already been accomplished is the work of Mrs. A. Noble King, who lives near Bloomington. Though a busy farmer's wife she finds time to give a little domestic science instruction in a country school near by. She also conducts every two weeks a study club for her women neighbors.

The president of the state association, Mrs. Carter, is a clubwoman in the conventional sense as well as a domestic science enthusiast. As president of the Champaign Woman's club she is prominently connected with public work in her city. But her hobby is undeniably domestic science.

The vice president at large, Mrs. Coffman, is equally interested in things domestic. She has already organized the Sangamon County Domestic Science association and serves as its president. She is also vice president of the Butter Makers' association. Through her efforts Illinois women are contributing to the "Cottage Cookbook," which will soon be issued.

The secretary, Mrs. Davenport, is the wife of Professor Davenport, dean of the agricultural department of the University of Illinois. She is one of the most active workers for domestic science.

THE LITTLE DINNER.

For the Hostess of Moderate Circumstances and Dainty Tastes.

Dinner giving is one of the most exacting of social functions. The uninitiated hostess makes a mistake if she tries to pay her social obligations in bulk, especially if her means are limited. For such a one a "little dinner" is best, and the following hints about it, from The Household, will be helpful: It is important that there be no more than the table can accommodate in comfort or the usual help attend to. Large dinner parties in small houses mean failure as a rule. Four or six guests can be properly entertained much better than a dozen, and the compliment to the few invited is far greater than where a crowd is met.

Too many courses are a mistake. From five to seven are sufficient. Nothing is more wearying than the "little dinner" served with pompous ostentation. Don't overcrowd your table, and have plenty of room. The ventilation of the dining room should receive extra care. Air the room throughout the day and let the temperature be about 65 degrees. A fire is seldom necessary, as the lights and food warm a room quickly.

Cover the table—a round one is the most social of all forms—with a heavy silence cloth, over which place a linen damask freshly laundered. This may be elaborated with insertion of rous-sance or bands of clumsy lace or Mexican drawn work in fanciful designs. The plain damask hemstitched cloths are never out of style and always look well. Colored cloths and napkins are not used at dinners.

No dinner table is complete without flowers, but great care must be observed in their selection. Delicately tinted flowers are preferable, because they will harmonize better with other colors. Another thing to be avoided is the possibility of annoying one's guests with the strong scent of some otherwise suitable flowers.

A low glass bowl filled with loose sprays of chrysanthemums, edged with a feathery green vine and resting on a daintily embroidered center cloth, forms an excellent centerpiece, or, if you are the possessor of a round, silver rimmed mirror, place it in the center of the table and encircle with fern tips or sprays of sunflower or spikes of white and green mignonette. On the mirror place a slender vase containing a few perfect half blown roses or carnations, with a few sprays of green. At each place lay a loose cluster of long stemmed rosebuds or carnations.

Short stemmed flowers are effectively arranged in a border of sunflower or other green vine wound in an artistic manner about the table.

The candelabra are placed at either end of the central mass of bloom, crowded with shades the hue of the flowers that are used or white. Single candlesticks are now frequently seen in place of the larger candelabrum. From four to eight are used, according to the size of the table.

Tiny dishes containing olives, salted almonds and bonbons are placed about the centerpiece.

Diet and Complexion.

This is an excellent time to remember that injudicious diet is the cause of many skin affections, and careful dieting will in numbers of cases do more to clear the skin from eruptions than drugs or lotions can possibly accomplish. If you desire to have a healthy skin, free from blotches and other disfigurements, be careful what you eat and drink. New bread, rich pastry, pork, shellfish, malt liquors and all highly seasoned dishes should be rigorously avoided. Tea and coffee should be taken sparingly. Fruits, especially apples and oranges, should be eaten freely. Always keep a pot of cold cream upon the toilet table. As an emollient for the skin, either in winter or summer, there are few specifics which can surpass it.

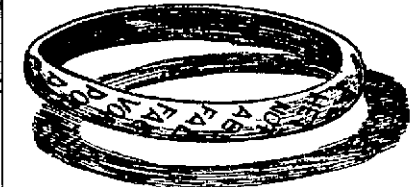

A New Wrinkle in Mince Meat.

This mince meat is made with maple sugar. Take one quart of chopped beef, one-half pound of suet, one cup of butter, one pint of molasses, two quarts of chopped apples, two cups of raisins, two pounds of maple sugar, one teaspoonful each of cloves, allspice and cinnamon. Boil slowly in two quarts of sweet cider two or three hours, being careful not to let it burn.

A Fad in Bracelets.

A novel idea upon which time and very little money can be spent has come to be acknowledged as a need of the up to date American girl. Some one suggested that a monogram bracelet, upon which the initials of one's friends could be engraved, would supply this want. And it has, says the New York Herald.

Heavy silver, or sometimes gold, bracelets are purchased by girls who,

THE NEW MONOGRAM BRACELET, after wearing them for a short time, request their friends to honor them by having their initials engraved upon the face of the bracelet.

From one friend to another the silver band is passed until its outer surface is filled with the monograms of the young woman's acquaintances. It is then returned to the owner and placed among her jewels as a memento.

Economy and friendship are aided by this recent custom. A silver bracelet, such as those required for the engraving, costs from 50 cents to $2. The cost of engraving should be defrayed by those who are asked to place their monograms upon it.

A TESTIMONIAL

To Boston Ideal
Fried Cakes

A Janesville working man recently carried several "Boston Ideal Fried Cakes" in his dinner pail for lunch. At noon a dozen of his comrades were invited to try these fried cakes. They all agreed they were the best they ever tasted, and were greatly surprised when told that they were bakery goods.

We now sell "Boston Ideals" to the 12 men and their families and they won't have anything else. We invite you to taste them.
